Certofix[®] Paed

Single and multilumen central venous catheters for paediatrics acc. to Seldinger technique

Catheter

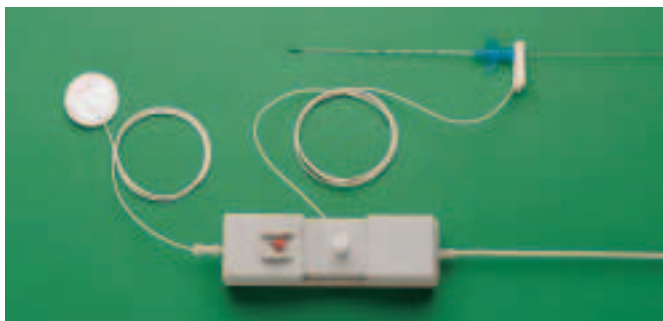

- Highly flexible polyurethane catheter.
- High flow rates due to thin-walled catheter design.
- Rapid assessment of insertion depth by length markings.

- Good radiopacity due to the fully pigmented catheters.
- Secure fixation.

Simultaneous positioning check during catheterization via the atrial ECG

- enables immediate corrective measures to be made in case of initial incorrect positioning of the catheter
- helps prevent subsequent complications, particularly the risk of pericardiac perforation and cardiac arrhythmias

- no X-ray required, no radiation exposure
- no incidents with contrast medium
- effortless identification of the P wave and thus clear verification of position
- no subsequent recatheterization due to incorrect positioning
- reduced costs of equipment and staff
